EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE

GLOBALIZATION: THE CHALLENGE OF PROSPERITY AND INEQUALITY

May 21-24, 2009

GRAND HYATT HOTEL

WASHINGTON, D.C.

GLOBAL AWARENESS SOCIETY INTERNATIONAL

The Global Awareness Society International, Inc. is a non-profit organization composed of people and organizations of various backgrounds that recognize that the world is no longer made up of independent nations and cultures. This technological induced change affects everyone. We, as an organization, wish to explore the exciting potential that globalization of the world's cultures and societies presents to each and every one of us as citizens of this planet. Established in 1991, our membership includes both academic and non-academic based professionals and individuals from various organizations and nations including the United States.

Globalization has made possible what was once merely a vision: the peoples of our world united under the roof of one Global Village. Yet, despite increasing interdependence, conflicts continue to blemish the landscape of our planet. We believe that a vital step toward achieving peace, harmony, and cooperation among the diverse peoples of our globe is to promote mutual understanding and appreciation for one another. Global Awareness Society International strives to turn a global vision into global reality.

Purposes of the Global Awareness Society International

- To promote awareness of the diversity of cultures within our global community.
- To enhance our understanding of the political, economic, social, demographic, technological, and environmental issues among members of the global community.
- To increase sensitivity to issues related to rapid globalization.
- To develop a mutual support network of scholars, professionals, interested people and organizations.
- To provide multiple forums for the exchange of research, knowledge, and expertise on people oriented issues related to globalization.
- To help people recognize the diversity and interdependence of the globe's peoples and the process of globalization.
- To develop and expand the number of national or regional Global Awareness Societies under the direction of the GASI to pursue our common goals.

A Message from GASI President

I am pleased to welcome you to Washington, DC for the eighteenth annual conference of the Global Awareness Society International (GASI). Over the past five years we have burnished our international credentials with conferences in Moscow, Rome, and Seoul. And here in the United States we have met in Chicago and San Francisco. This year we have come to the Nation's Capital at a historic moment in the life of the United States and indeed the world. The American people have elected its first African American president who has committed himself to bring change to the nation and the world now facing the greatest economic challenge since the Great Depression.

It is also a challenge to globalization. As a global organization, this is therefore an opportune time for us to meet in the Nation's Capital to give voice to our different perspectives on the implications of this challenge for prosperity and inequality around the world. True to our multidisciplinary mission, the conference papers will discuss a wide range of problems affecting the human condition. It is my sincere hope that out of these discussions will come enlightenment.

Ransford W. Palmer, President
 Global Awareness Society International

GREETINGS FROM THE CONFERENCE PROGRAM CHAIR

It is a great pleasure to join the Founder and the President of GASI in welcoming all of you to Washington, DC, the national capital of the United States to brainstorm on global issues for the next few days. We could not have convened at a better time than this time nor could we have met at a better location than in Washington, DC where the world comes together. We could not have chosen a more appropriate theme for this conference than this: Globalization: the Challenge of Prosperity and Inequality.

The current global economic quagmire that has brought distress to many nations—particularly, those of the developing nations—firmly confirms the need for our organization as forum for research and global education. The world is interconnected and interdependent. No nation is truly an island. Through our deliberations here, we will be contributing our ideas towards the establishment of a proactive agenda for global peace, security, and understanding.

Let us take advantage of the diversity of our participants and make acquaintances for future networking, collaborative research and which will bond us for many years to come. The program committee is particularly pleased with the increased participation of students at this year's conference. They are our future: GASI belongs to them. I urge our returning members to reach out to these young scholars, and to first time participants, and make them feel at home. With your help, this conference will be another memorable one.

George A. Agbango

Conference Speakers

Dean Orlando L. Taylor, Opening Speaker

Orlando L. Taylor is currently Vice Provost for Research, Dean of the Graduate School, and Professor of Communications at Howard University. He has held many other positions at Howard, including Dean of its School of Communication and Interim Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Prior to joining the Howard faculty in 1973, Vice Provost Taylor was a faculty member at Indiana University. He also has served as a Visiting Professor at Stanford University, Adjunct Professor at the University of Pittsburgh and Visiting Scholar at the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Dr. Taylor is a national leader in graduate education and within his discipline. He is currently or has served previously as a member of numerous national boards, including the Board of Directors of the Council of Graduate Schools (CGS), for which he served as Board Chair in 2001. He is also a Past President of the Northeastern Association of Graduate Schools and the National Communication Association. He is a former member of the Advisory Committee of the Directorate for Education and Human Resources of the National Science Foundation and of the Advisory Council at the National Institutes of Health. He is also the former president of the Consortium of Social Science Associations and a current member of the Board of Trustees of the University Corporation for Atmospheric Research and the Oak Ridge Associated Universities Board of Directors. He chairs the National Advisory Board for the Center for the Integration of Research, Teaching and Learning, a major NSF-funded center at the University of Wisconsin.

As Graduate Dean at Howard University since 1993, Vice Provost Taylor has played a significant role in assuring Howard's continued national leadership in graduate education. Howard, a richly diverse institution, produces more African American on-campus Ph.D. recipients than any research university in the United States. Vice Provost Taylor is a leader in several national initiatives involving graduate education. He has been a particularly vigorous advocate and spokesperson on topics and issues relating to access and equity in higher education.

Vice Provost Taylor has raised several million dollars in research, training and program development grants from federal and private sources during his career at Howard University. Currently, he serves as PI on major grants from the National Science Foundation to increase the production of minority Ph.D. recipients in science, technology, mathematics and engineering (STEM) and in the social, behavioral and economic (SBE) sciences; as well as from the U.S. Department of Education to develop collaborative academic and research programs between universities in Brazil and in four European Union countries with Howard University and several others in the United States. He is the author of numerous articles, chapters, and books.

Vice Provost Taylor has earned honorary doctorates from Purdue University, Indiana University, The Ohio State University, Hope College and DePauw University. The American Speech-Language-Hearing Association awarded him its highest award, Honors of the Association, and the Alumni Association of the University of Michigan awarded him its Distinguished Service Alumni Award.

18th Annual Conference of the Global Awareness Society International

Dr. Taylor received his bachelor's degree from Hampton University, master's degree from Indiana University, and Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan.

Mr. Lawrence McDonald, Global Banquet Speaker

Mr. MacDonald is Vice President of the Center for Global Development. He studied at University of Michigan as a Journalism Fellow (1989-90), completed Intensive study of Mandarin Chinese at Taiwan Normal University (1976-78), and earned a B.A. with High Honors in East Asian Studies from the University of California at Santa Barbara (1976). Lawrence MacDonald works to increase the policy impact of CGD's research and analysis by leading an integrated communications program that includes publications, media relations, government and NGO outreach, events, and online engagement. Before joining the Center in October 2004 he was a senior communications officer at the World Bank where he provided strategic communications advice to chief economists, coordinated the preparation of research publications and created the World Bank Research web site. He was founding editor of the Bank's Policy Research Report series and launched two innovative yet enduring web tools: the Bank's Online Media Briefing Center and the International AIDS Economic Network (IAEN), a virtual community. Prior to that he worked in East and Southeast Asia for 15 years as a reporter and editor for The Asian Wall Street Journal, Agence France Presse, and Asiaweek Magazine.

Dr. David L. Soltz, Global Education Plenary Speaker

David L. Soltz, Ph.D., became Bloomsburg University of Pennsylvania's 18th president in January 2008. Prior to his appointment as President, Dr. Soltz served as provost and senior vice president for academic affairs at Central Washington University

Active in a number of organizations related to higher education, he served as chair of the Inter-institutional Committee of Academic Officers for the state of Washington's six public baccalaureate institutions and as Central Washington University's representative to the State Higher Education Coordinating Board. For the past four years, he was the State representative on the executive committee of the Northwest Academic Forum.

Dr. Soltz also served on the executive committee of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU) Grant Resource Center and was an original member of the implementation committee for the American Democracy Project. Washington Gov. Christine Gregoire appointed him to the Committee on the Education of Students in High Demand Fields. From 1996 to 2001, Dr. Soltz was dean of natural and social sciences at California State University at Los Angeles and, from 1988 to 1996, he chaired the department of biological sciences at California State University, Long Beach. He also was chair of the board of governors of the California Desert Studies Consortium from 1992 until 2001.

As provost or dean, he made official visits to 10 universities in China, often negotiating cooperative agreements for international education opportunities. He's taught courses ranging from freshman seminar and general biology for non-majors to graduate seminars on ecology and evolutionary biology.

Dr. Soltz earned a bachelor's degree in zoology from the University of California, Berkeley, and a doctoral degree in biology from the University of California, Los Angeles. His research focuses on environmental biology and the population biology of fishes living in stressful environments, such as high temperature and high salinity.

Soltz is a Rotarian and, before moving to Bloomsburg, was a member of the board of the United Way of Kittitas County and the strategic planning and implementation committee of Kittitas Valley Community Hospital

Dr. James E. Mackin, Global Education Plenary Speaker

James Mackin is Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs at Bloomsburg University of Pennsylvania. He received his B.S. and M.S. degrees at the University of Michigan in 1977 and 1979, respectively. He went on to receive his Ph.D. in Geophysical Sciences from the University of Chicago in 1983. He became Assistant Professor of Marine Sciences at the State University of New York at Stony Brook in 1984. In 1989 he was promoted to Associate Professor of Marine Sciences and was appointed Director of Undergraduate Studies for the Marine Sciences Research Center at Stony Brook. In 1993 Dr. Mackin was appointed the faculty director of the Environmental Studies Living Learning Center at Stony Brook. He was appointed to the position of Associate Dean for Undergraduate Academic Affairs at Stony Brook in 1997. In July of 1998, Dr. Mackin was selected for the position of Vice President for Academic Affairs at Stillman College, a private Liberal Arts College in Tuscaloosa, Alabama. He held this position until October of 2000, when he was named Dean of University College and Special Assistant to the President for Educational and Academic Development at Prairie View A&M University. In his capacity as Special Assistant to the President, Dr. Mackin led the establishment of many new diversity programs under the Texas Commitment to Prairie View A&M University OCR Priority Plan. In July of 2003, Dr. Mackin moved on to become the Associate Provost at Clayton College & State University, and in July of 2005, Dr. Mackin was named Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs at Bloomsburg University.
